Definition of investment themes

Blockchain infrastructure

Blockchain relies on specific physical infrastructures and computer networks, the needs of which are met by specialised companies.

- New opportunities are opening up for the transport sector, such as improving logistics tracking, optimising the carbon footprint or simplifying customs processing.

Digital assets and fintech

A revolution is underway for money transfers, payment solutions and asset trading, including through tokenisation.

- Decentralisation of web applications, social networks and online communities will become the new technological norm, with innovative business models starting to emerge, such as play-to-earn platforms or online identity management.

- Companies from vertical sectors (industry, consumer goods, natural resources...) rely on blockchain to develop solutions to increase their operational efficiency and transparency.

Risk level

The synthetic risk indicator shows the level of risk of this product compared to others. It indicates the probability that this product will suffer losses in the event of market movements or our inability to pay you.

We have classified this product in risk class 6 of 7, which is a high risk class. This means that the potential losses associated with the future performance of the product are high and, if market conditions deteriorate, it is very likely that our ability to pay you will be affected.

Other important risk factors not adequately covered by the indicator :

Credit risk: Risk of deterioration in credit quality or risk of default by an issuer that could negatively impact the price of the assets in the portfolio.

Liquidity risk: Risk linked to the low liquidity of the underlying markets, which makes them sensitive to significant buying and selling movements.

Impact of techniques such as derivatives: The use of derivatives can amplify the impact of market movement effects on the portfolio.
